CITY OF REFUGE

Colombia has the largest population in the world of internally displaced persons. The country's 50+ year civil war and ongoing clashes between the military, leftist guerrilla groups, and right-wing paramilitary groups leave hundreds of thousands annually fleeing their homes and migrating to urban centers in search of shelter and economic opportunity. Few find work or have the courage to register themselves to receive government support, and others fall victim to gang and drug activity on the city streets. City of Refuge provides a refuge for those in need through the provision of humanitarian aid and holistic programming. Through feeding, housing, recovery, education, and work-readiness programming, they help provide both short-term and long-term assistance for those interested in restoring their lives and creating lasting change for their futures.
